

Contractor Position Posting

MOSAIC, a non-profit settlement and employment organization serving newcomers in BC, is looking for a contractor to assist with knowledge dissemination for its recently completed project report on Using Disaggregated Data to Address the Systemic Discrimination Experienced by International Medical Graduates (IMGs). We are hiring an independent, ideally post-doctoral scholar/researcher, with the following competencies:

- familiarity with labour migration policies in Canada, particularly skilled labour migration and skilled immigrant professionals' experience/challenges/barriers in Canada (historically and in current times)
- familiarity with quantitative and qualitative data analysis and dissemination
- excellent academic, professional and popular writing skills (note the position involves writing in styles suitable for academic journals, newsletters for professional regulatory bodies and popular magazines)
- familiarity with health policy analysis from critical perspectives will be an asset
- familiarity with the history of the evolution of health policies, especially licensing regulation and accreditation policies in Canada will also be an asset

The candidate will work in consultation with the research advisory committee at MOSAIC. They will identify the various audience and themes for publication, pitch publications at popular and academic magazines and will take the lead in writing/editing with supervisory support from members of the committee. They will be credited with co-authorship. The project will run for approximately 8 to 10 months (to be determined during the contracting process).

Remuneration: $10,000

Please send the following in one pdf document to mosaicbc46@gmail.com by Sept 30th:

- a brief cover letter describing your relevant skills, interests and experience
- a cv; please include relevant academic and popular publications
- a writing sample that speaks to the competencies mentioned above

MOSAIC thanks all applicants for their interest but only selected candidates will be contacted.
